

ABOUT THE HUMANAIRES

"The Humanaires" is the non-professional membership chorus of the Congregation for Humanistic Judaism in Sarasota, Florida.

Our repertoire consists of a broad range of Jewish and Humanistic music in various languages including English, Hebrew, Yiddish, Ladino, Aramaic and Italian. We have grown from a small group of seven singers in 1998 to our current size of about twenty-five members. We meet weekly from mid-August to the end of May, and sing one or two times a month as part of our congregation's services.

Our conductor is Robert Lischetti, well known in the Sarasota/Manatee area for his talents as a voice teacher and chorus conductor, as well as for his own beautiful tenor voice.

Membership in The Humanaires requires no previous choral experience nor does one need to know the various languages in which we sing. All are invited to join and participate, sing a wide range of music, have fun, meet great people and learn about our wonderful wide musical heritage.

Click on the "Calendar Link" on the Website and look for the bold H in our calendar indicating when we sing.

To learn more about The Humanaires speak with any chorus member, or call 941-929-7771 and leave a message at our office indicating your interest in singing with the chorus. Someone will return your call. Don't be an observer, be a participant!!
